CPSA finds Dr. Peter Iglinski guilty of unprofessional conduct

Edmonton, AB – Dr. Peter Iglinski, a family physician from Edmonton, was found guilty of failing to cooperate with a complaint investigation by not responding appropriately to communications from CPSA.

After considering the evidence presented and testimony provided, the Tribunal found that Dr. Iglinski committed unprofessional conduct by taking six months to respond to communications from CPSA about a complaint filed against him, and for failing to confirm to CPSA after being asked whether he had provided the Workers' Compensation Board (WCB) with requested chart notes regarding his patient. A third allegation against Dr. Iglinski was found to have not been proven and was dismissed by the Tribunal.

Dr. Iglinski did not attend or participate in the hearing. The Tribunal will reconvene at a later date to consider submissions on sanction.
